TINKER COULDN'T FOOL BENTON-OH, NO!

Rube Benton, the Cincinnati southpaw, didn't know any too much about the art of pitching when he made his major league debut a couple of seasons ago. Cincinnati and Chicago were playing and Benton was pitching. Joe Tinker, who was then playing short for the Cubs, walked and then proceeded to have some fun with the Rube. He took a long lead off first. Benton turned around and grinned, but made no attempt to catch him. Tinker walked to second. Joe bluffed a steal to third, and when Benton made no move to stop him, walked to that base. Manager Griffith was raving by this time. Tinker took another look at the grinning Rube and then made a break for home. Tinker scored What's the matter with you? What in the blankety-blanketyblank were you doing out there?" cried Griffith when Benton came in from the field. Benton smiled the happy smile of a child that had just been presented with a six-foot sugar cane. "Oh, they can't foot me," he replied. "That man Tinker thought he was going to play a smart trick on me. He thought I was green and tried to make me throw the ball, but I fooled him." There's no record of how long Griffith's fainting spell lasted
